'82-'83 Built Student Spirit

Fhe 1982-1983 school year sustained and added to the spirit that was revived last year. The addition of a freshman grade level added an entirely new dimension to "Panther Pride". The enthusiasm brought with the ninth graders blended perfectly with that of the other classes to produce a unified, cooperative student body that knew no limits.

Addition Brought Different Viewpoint

The 1982-83 school year was the first in Euclid High's 34 year history to accommodate a freshman grade level. The freshmen, cautious at first, soon grew accustomed to all aspects of life in their new home. Sports, activities, and classes changed and took on a new look. Coaches, faculty, and students themselves were forced to look at their old school from a new viewpoint.

Traditional + Modern $=\boldsymbol{A}$ New Angle

The 1982-1983 school vear also青 saw the fusion of old traditions with modern ideas. Classroom study was updated with the aid of computers, video recorders and the like. The new student body responded eagerly to the challenges of the future. Tomorrow got a start today at EHS.

Jane Mast Reigns Over Fall Pageant

Homecoming festivities began on Wednesday, September 29, at a pep assembly held in the gym. At this time the homecoming queen and her court were announced, and the students were pepped up by Euclid's band.

The homecoming parade was held the following evening as Panther fans lined the curbs of East 222 Street. After a brief rally in the gym, the night was capped by a bonfire at the baseball diamond in Memorial Park.

The homecoming game against Mentor proved to be enjoyable and spirited even though Euclid lost 147. The queen and her court were presented to the crowd at half time by their fathers. Junior Nancy Shimonek summed up the feelings of most students when she said, "I really enjoyed homecoming weekend. I couldn't go last year, and I was sorry I missed it. It was great to see school spirit and student involvement, especially on the part of the freshmen and sophomores."

Dance Caps

The 1982 homecoming dance, a typical student council extravaganza, held on October 3, was quite successful as 205 couples, many of them seniors, made their appearances. The theme of the dance was "Dancing in the Streets." In the brightly decorated hall of the E-room, amid the numerous colorful balloons and ribbons, dancing continued from eight until after eleven o'clock to the sounds of "Jump," the homecoming band. The many happy faces and overall cheerfulness attested to the success of the dance. According to Sue Suponcic, "It was a super beginning to what I hope turns out to be a wild senior year. The dance also had special meaning to me because I was able to see my sister attend her first big senior high social event as the freshman attendent." Lisa Vitalic stated, "The homecoming dance was absolutely fabulous! Being the first major event of the year, it left quite a good impression with me. The band, scenery, and most of all, the people made the occasion memorable. I really loved it!"

Gifter And Gold

Ireparations for the Flag Corps' half time appearances began last July when the girls attended a camp at Willoughby South to learn various flag positions and twirls. During August they practiced daily with the Marching Band to learn their first show.

In addition to their half time shows, the Flag Corps performed at the sports assemblies, parades, and were part of the Higbee Tribute to America Celebration.

The 1982 squad was led by co-captains Janet Larkins and Sue Reinke. Dedication and hard work were the keys to their success. Sue Reinke stated, "It's a lot of work, but we have a lot of fun doing it." Another member added, "l really enjoyed Flag Corps. It's been a great experience and has taught us all how to work as a team.
Like the Flag Corps, the Majorettes went to work last summer to work on their marching skills. They held two-hour practices twice a week throughout the summer. Routines, dance steps, and marching were mandatory requirements for a successful season. In addition to these practices, the girls attended band camp with the Marching Band to learn the first show. Many hours of practice went into each $71 / 2 \mathrm{~min}$ ute show.

This year the majorettes were captained by Terri Zakraysek, who summed up her feelings by saying, "We had a great squad this year We've come a long way.'

This year's version of the Marching Band kicked off its season earlier than one might expect. Band camp began on August 16th, and from then on there was nothing but hard work.
Practices for the six half time shows that would be performed during the course of the football season began immediately. The arranging and choreographing of each show was an arduous task. But thanks to the work of Judy Stevko, Sharon Tice, Steve Archacki, Linda Wudy, Eric Martin, Ed Tepley, Martin Christoff, Joanie Cable, Lisa Galer, and Joe Vislocky, everything came together.
Other band members also contributed to the season. Band president Sam Pantalone, Jeff Tekanic, Mike Bratton, and Ruth Bierer gave rookie members the confidence to perform as well as the more experienced ones. As sophomore band member Sue Tucceri said, "Although this year was hard work, it was worth it because the band became a second family. You made a lot of new friends, and they were there when you needed them."

Far right: Sharon Tice, a three-year band member, co-produced one of this year's shows. Right, middle: Hours of practice and long bus rides to away games produced a special spirit in band members. Right: The Marching Band helped to enliven the homecoming parade.

Mama Comes To Life

When director Judith McLaughlin selected / Remember Mama for this year's fall play, she was not fully aware of what was in store for her. However, she replied, there was an "artistic challenge for every actor to bring their part to life." As the scripts arrived, she then noticed the numerous scene changes, thirty to be exact. The talents of the technical crew had to be put to the test, for the many scene changes posed a few lighting difficulties, all of which were resolved. The properties also had their work cut out for them as they had to deal with moving sets around between scenes.

A change was made in the number of performances given. Usually the play runs three nights, but due to the amount of work put into the production Mrs. McLaughlin added two more nights. Also a factor in this decision was that in the past the fall play has drawn sold out audiences, so with the addition of the extra days, attendence would be even better.

When asked her views on the play,

Mrs. McLaughlin replied that the cast did a "remarkable job" and had "the highest praise for props and characters." Sam Pantalone, who portrayed Uncle Chris had this to say about Mrs. McLaughlin, "Her attitude of professionalism makes us feel like we really accomplished something."

-98ith over 2000 students in Euclid High School distributed among four grade levels, organization is seemingly impossible. Luckily, each class has a board whose members become the nucleus of the grade. The groups plan fund raisers and activities with one goal in mind: raising enough money for senior prom.

The Senior Class Cabinet, under pressure to collect enough money for prom, came up with several unique ideas. The class held a "Breakfast with Santa", and invited the children of the area to attend. The kids got breakfast with Santa. Also at Christmas the board sponsored an elf sale. Students purchased 50 cent tickets in hopes of winning the elf of their choice. For those who did win, the elves took notes, carried books and did other small tasks during the day. Together, the activities raised over $1000.

The Junior Class also sponsored some unique fund raisers and a snack bar in the E-room. The Sophomore Class raised money by sponsoring a dance, as did the Freshmen Class. In the student council-sponsored hall decorating contest, the freshmen took first place.

Euclid's class cabinets provide organization to the student body and make the year in high school more memorable.

$T$he Key Club is a community service organization under the direction of the Euclid Kiwanis Club. They help the community in areas where they are needed, and volunteer their time and efforts to help needy organizations, such as raising money for the March of Dimes. The club consists of some thirty members and meets every Thursday night. The officers include Bernadette Champa, president, Darrin Wagmer and Phil Karibinis, vice president, Judy Steko, treasurer, and Vince Rattini, secretary. Fund raisers for various organizations are sales of candy and coupon books, a Kiwanis Club Pancake Breakfast, Swingathon, and Coffee Shop. They volunteer to rake leaves at the Rosemary Home, walk in the Heart Association Walkathon, and shovel snow for senior citizens. Member Angelo Serra commented, "Helping others in need makes me feel good about myself."

The French Club is one of the youngest clubs at the school. Its purpose is to give French speaking and non-French speaking students a chance to learn about the culture. Activities include singing Christmas carols in the halls before winter break, going to a French play, and watching French films. A trip to Quebec is planned each May.

Last December, the group went to a choir program and catered dinner called "La Maison Francais." The choir sang French Christmas songs and the audience was invited to sing along. They also painted a picture of Le Petit Prince on Mr. Fellague's classroom wall.

This year's troops of cheerleaders were exceptionally spirited as they supported each of Euclid's football teams. The three groups included the varsity, JV and freshman squads. The squads practiced twice a week after school. With the help of spirit button sales, the varsity squad purchased new uniforms. The addition of the freshman cheerleaders merely added to the school spirit.

This year's squads competed in cheerleading competition at Euclid Square Mall. Though they did not win, they put on a good effort. The great turnout of Euclid students attested to the spirit of the Euclid student body. Peggy Stibinger stated, "It's fun getting people rowdy." Brenda Hubbard added, "We're a wild bunch of girls. Cheerleading is great!"

here do the football cheerleaders go when the season is over? Most of them go on to become basketball cheerleaders, and, just like the football cheerleaders, they direct and channel the enthusiasm of the crowds.
Just as the football cheerleaders had three squads, so did the basketball cheerleaders. The squads practiced after school, twice a week. The squads raised money by selling spirit buttons and sponsoring car washes. The girls are sponsored by Mrs. Wanderslaben and Mrs. Robinson. When asked what was so exciting about cheerleading, a group replied, "We get a great look at the male figures in action." Brenda Hubbard and Beth Neiman added, "It's been real, but wait . . . ""

The Sound Of Music

Band and Orchestra are two very popular activities at Euclid High School. The various bands are Stage Band, Concert Band, Symphonic Wind Ensemble, Pep Band, as well as the Orchestra.

Under the direction of Mr. Hudson, the Orchestra has improved tremendously in size and quality due to the addition of the ninth graders this year. The group performs concerts for the school and at homes for senior citizens.

The Stage Band is directed by Mr. Joel Sarich and plays mostly jazz. They perform throughout the community at elementary and secondary schools and at homes for senior citizens.

The Pep Band, directed by Mike Bratton and Ruth Ann Bier, plays at home basketball games and pep assemblies. The Satellite Pep Band, formed by Chris Wright, is a new addition this year. It performs at hockey games. Both encourage school spirit and pride.

Concerts, Contests Give Young Musicians A Chance To Show Their Stuff

三家he Christmas Brass was assembled in December and played Christmas carols in the halls and at Euclid Square Mall, spreading the Christmas spirit to all.

Concert Band and Symphonic Wind Ensemble are both directed by Mr. Sydow. The Symphonic Wind Ensemble is very elite and auditions are held for the places in it. Both give concerts for the students and in the evenings for the public.

In addition to playing in the bands, many of the musicians enter solo and ensemble contests, often receiving high ratings. Mr. Sydow commented: "Many excellent musicians have demonstrated good leadership traits in the program, along with their outstanding musical accomplishments."

 tyle is only achieved by practice, and this is what the singers of Euclid High School do best.

To prepare for the numerous performances, 30 to be exact, the Varsity Chorale must practice two to three hours a week. Community groups, senior citizen homes and concerts are only a few examples of the many places they sing at. The Varsity Chorale consists of 18 juniors and seniors, all of which were chosen by audition. Along with this, a trip is scheduled for May of this year for them.

The Choral Masters this year has grown considerably. It is open to all 11th and 12th graders. They put on several shows including the Christmas and Spring Concerts the All City Choir Festival, held here in April, and the GCC Choir Festival in February.
"The Choral Program seems to be involving more and more of the student body, and enthusiasm is making the hard work all worthwile," commented Miss Bosworth with vivacity.

園or the past couple of years the Peer Counseling program has helped students through troubled times.
The Peer Counselors have had extensive training in listening and many other facets of student help.
The group of 22 students is ready and willing to give a helping hand and resolve many types of problems whether they be drug abuse, alcoholism or family troubles. Whatever the case may be, the Peer Counselors are always ready to listen and try to help. They do not give advice; rather, they suggest possible alternatives to the problem or even refer the student, or "seeker" as they are called, to someone who can give specialized help.

Through this program the students involved become very close. "Those that have sought out Peer Counselors obtain information they might not have otherwise received," stated advisor Mrs. Lynn Davis.

In fact, most people think that lockers are plair and boting, so they decorate their fockers with photographs, posters and other trinkets.

Other popular thing are photographs and posters. Pdactically everyone has a photograp of a friend, a boyfriend/girlfriend, or a fayorite rock star.

Yet every decorated locker is unique in its own way. Lockers reflect the locker owner. Fres hman Dawn Betning stated,'I decorate my locker because it's boring looking." Junior Jackie Majers said, "Lockers were created to be decorated"

So go ahead, decorate that locker, and be creative about it. A decorated locker is a happy locker.

An Even Exchange

The American Field Service is a club that offers American and foreign students a chance to go to school in another country. They stay for three months or a year. The Euclid High School club, headed by Mrs. Cowan, has twenty members.
In A.F.S., the community sponsors a foreign student, and the club buys him the extra things he needs. It gets its money through various fund raisers. For example, it sponsored a Novemberfest dinner at Europa Travel Agency on November 6th. They also compiled a cookbook with recipes donated by teachers and students.

Last year, senior Mara Pinkava was sent from Euclid to South Africa. Maria Silhammer, an A.F.S. student from Sweden, attended Euclid this year.

Silhammer said that Euclid High School is much bigger than her school in Sweden, and it is easy to make friends here. She also said, "Swedish schools do not have daily schedules, but different classes each day. The students have more responsibilities with their school work than Americans do."

An A.F.S. exchange experience can be very rewarding for any student who is interested in foreign cultures and travel.

Euclid Receives Swede

圆uclid welcomed a new face to our school in 1983 -Maria Silhammer, our American Field Service student from Sweden. This blond, blueeyed senior arrived in August and lived with Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Morgan and their four children. It is quite a change for Maria who lived with her older brother, father and mother in a suburb very much like Euclid.
Maria explains that one of the major differences between Sweden and the U.S. is the educational system. In Sweden children start school at age seven continue until they are 15. At the end of this 8 year period, the student may drop out and try to find a job or continue on to the "gymnasium", which is similar to high school. A student entering the Eymnasium must choose a certain line of study and take courses according to his or her choice. The courses run on a weekly schedule instead of a daily one. Maria plans to finish school and pursue a career in journalism.

"I like the people very much and I feel very welcome," Maria says. She participated in Chorale Masters and played Mama, one of the leading roles in this year's fall play.
Maria admits that it will be hard for her when she returns to Sweden because she is not given academic credit for her year in America. Although she regretted leaving her family and friends in Sweden, she feels that AFS is a worthwhile experience that will give her many fond memories of the friends she made here.

Spirit Up; Market Up

1n these hard financial times, with a depressed economy and unemployment at a record high, it is good to have a working knowledge of the stock market, about the only thing doing well. While the Investment Club does not make one a financial genius, it does supply an understanding of American business.
The Investment Club raises money through candy sales, with each candy bar sold bringing the investor a $50 \llbracket$ share. The money is pooled, and the students vote on the stock in which they choose to invest. This year the club raised about $\$ 1480$ and chose to invest in Commodore Int., the same stock invested in last year. After rising and declining like a rollercoaster, the seventy eight investors sold the stock at a profit in a high riding bull market. Brian Kime, when asked why he enjoys the Investment Club stated, "With the knowledge I have acquired through the club, I am now able to understand the economic reports on the evening news. I also get more money than I started out with."
When one walks down the halls of Euclid Senior High on Thursdays, the undaunted spirit of Euclid students is apparent in the numerous spirit signs plastered everywhere. The Spirits Club members regularly paint these signs on Wednesday evenings in the boys' gym corridor. Armed with paint and paper, they support Euclid's football, baseball, cross country and wrestling teams as well as every other sport Euclid has. These signs are then put up around the school. One of the greatest things about Thursdays is reading all the signs. The Spirits Club Brings people closer together, Mona Denovich said, "The main reason I come is to see all my friends." Ed Wilson states, "Spirits due is awesome, and so are the paint fights!"

The athletes also helped support school. Glenn Kubik, Al Lapuh, Scott Carpenter, Bill Nachtigal, Paul Pallante and Frank Hufnagle all contributed to produce a football sign hung in the 1st floor cross corridor.

ou are walking down a corridor filled with strangers: ghosts, goblins, smurfs, lubners, and punk rockers. All are eying you and whispering. You quicken your pace, hoping the fear doesn't show on your face. Too late; you're cornered by three hidious creatures. Your heart is pounding. "Hi! Hey, where's you're costume?" You breather a sigh of relief and remember that it is Dress-Up Day at Euclid.

A remarkable number of students participated this year in Euclid's annual Student Council Halloween Dress-Up Day, which took place on October 29. The large number of dressers proved the success of the activity. Even some of the faculty donned disguises. Costumes were judged on originality and appearance and a winner for the best costume for each grade level was chosen. Taking into view the whole student body, all were winners because dressing up was a welcome break from a sometimes monotonous school routine.

The Halloween dance the next night was quite successful. The Junior class, sponsors of the dance, raised $$ 300$. Free apple cider was served, costumes were judged and prizes awarded. D.J. Dan Cohan provided all the latest hits. It could be said that the dance provised a good outlet for all the school's spirit.

国uclid High's student newsmagazine, The Survey, fought a year of rising costs, depressed advertising, and young staff in publishing its five issues. Led by co-editors Kalvis Cers and Mike Kucera and sports editor Bob Daugherty, the publication underwent major improvements in layout, content, and photography. The biggest problem, however, was attracting staff members and writers experienced enough.

Survey advisers Mr. Justin Antonini and Mr. William McGuinness were enthusiastic about the magazine. "We can have as good a magazine as we want to make it," commented Antonini. Articles on subjects like drinking laws, video games, and entertainment helped to bring the paper in contact with student interests. Antonini held a series of meetings designed to teach writers the proper way to construct an interesting, informative article. "If we only had another year, I feel the Survey could become a top-notch publication," commented Kucera.

The Eucuyo is EHS's literary outlet. This year the club produced a 60 page collection of writings, submitted by English teachers from each grade level.

Since no ads were sold, the book was financed by the faculty and student council and printed at the Board of Education.

The members of the Eucuyo staff read, edited, and typed the materials for the book. Meeting for $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours per week, each member contributed about thirty hours toward the publication.

Putting Things In Perspective

Work on the 1983 Euclidian began in the spring of 1982 when the staff was formed and section editors chosen. Led by editor-in-chief Mike Kucera, several of the editors attended a yearbook workshop at Denison University in late June. A meeting of section editors in early July produced two possible themes for the ' 83 book: "Small Change" and "A New Perspective". "A New Perspective" was chosen as the theme since it better expressed the outlook of EHS in 1983.
John Theodosion's work as business editor began on early August as staff members began selling advertising space to local businesses. Although staff members worked hard, only $$ 4600$ in ads were sold, $$ 500$ less than last year, reflecting the downturn in the economy. The same disappointing numbers were seen in yearbook subscription totals. With the movement of the ninth grade to EHS this year, there were 500 more students, yet the staff was able to sell only 1100 subsciptions-100 fewer than last year, September saw many of the editorial decisions made concerming the organization of the 1983 Euclidian. Based on judges' comments from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the American Scholastic Press Association, who evaluated the 1982 book (it won a first place rating from both organizations) several changes were made. 52 more pages were added to the 1983 Euclidian, making its 308 pages the biggest EHS yearbook since 1974. The additional space accommodated larger senior pictures, the first appearance of a freshman class in a EHS yearbook, and expanded coverage of student life. A full-color cover was also decided upon, and its design and production were turned over to vocational art students Julie Koucky and Frank Bauck.

The first two deadlines, on November 1st and 29th, were met easily through the efforts of Dan Moster and Jim Ambrose, who had their fall sports pages due then, and Jackie Majers, underclass editor.

The next deadline, January 3rd, proved to be a little harder to handle, although it too was met, but only because of several staff members came into school during Christmas vacation to work on pages.

Many of these pages came from the activities and student life section, the responsibility of Mike Lange and Sue Hoffert.

The January 24th deadline was filled in large part with pages from Al Ponsart's academics section and Laurie Hanlon's and Hillary Hook's senior section.

To provide the best possible coverage of the year, 121 of the book's 308 pages were held back until the final deadline: February 21st. And although a few staff members, especially those on the sports section, spent some long hours after school in the yearbook office in mid-February, the last pages were indexed by Maureen Colling and the 1983 Euclidian became history.

Although the editors were the driving force behind the 1983 Euclidian, significant contributions were made by other staff members. John Grmovsek, Mike Guarino, Kris Fazio, Eric Martin, and Bob Sarka were responsible for much of the photography in the book while Elaine Haupt, Anna Chanakas, John Bolsar, and Kristen Brown helped to write and prepare much of the book's copy. Finally, top yearbook salesperson was Wendy Potokar, who sold 74 books.

1982-1983 was a year in which blockbuster movies, records and television shows dominated the media. Even with the miserable economy, people were still willing to shell out top dollar for entertainment.

The year in movies can be summed up in two letters - E.T. E.T., The Extra-Terrestrial, Stephen Spielberg's space-age fairy tale of a boy and his adventures with a marrooned creature from outer space, broke all kinds of records as it grossed more than $$ 240$ million between Memorial Day and Labor Day and showed no signs of stopping. Rocky III, Poltergeist, Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan and An Officer and a Gentleman also drew lines at the boxoffices. The Wall, a film adaptation of Pink Floyd's album of the same title, attracted attention for its unique story and presentation.

1982-1983 was the biggest year yet for the cable television industry. Words like "HBO", "ESPN" and "Showtime" became common in the vocabularies of Euclid students. The most talked about cable channel, by far, was MTV (Music Television). MTV is a channel devoted to running videos of every imagineable type of music, from punk to hard rock.
Blockbuster albums dominated the music scene this year. Releases by Asia, The Who, Men at Work, Bruce Springsteen, John Cougar and the Clash raced to the top of the charts. 1982-1983 saw a change in musical tastes as more and more new wave and non-conventional bands surfaced. Concert activity was not lacking in the Cleveland area, though, as groups like Asia, The Michael Stanley Band, Rush, The J. Geils Band and The Who made stops at area venues. 1982 was also a very special year for The Who - they called it quits for touring after 17 years together, playing their final dates in the United States right here in Cleveland.
Television was one area which seemed to fail at making a really strong showing in the world of entertainment this year. Other than the top series like Hill Street Blues, 60 Minutes, Dynasty, Falcon Crest, and The Thorn Birds and The Winds of War specials, television was rather dull and uninteresting.
The entertainment winner of the year had to be the home computer. Named Time magazine's 'Man of the Year', these extremely versatile and useful machines of the future were used in ever-increasing numbers for everything from balancing home budgets to playing games. The computer age definitely took a stronghold in the American lifestyle in 19821983.

The year in entertainment definitely wouldn't be complete without a mention of video games. "Videomania", as it became known, was a seemingly universal phenomenon. Games like Atari and Intellivision were sold in huge numbers. Those who were unable to afford the home versions of the games dropped their quarters at the new game rooms which sprung up. Donkey Kong, Defender and Pac Man were among the favorites.

1982-1983 thus proved to be a year of standouts in the world of entertainment.

The local, national, and world events of the 1982-1983 school year had surprises for many people.
Several Euclid businesses were surprised by fire. In November the Shore Bowling Alley was destroyed by a blaze, while several businesses in the Colonial Building were damaged in a $$ 100,000$ fire in February.
Locally and nationally, the depressed economy dominated the news. Unemployment in Ohio reached the $14 \%$ level, the highest since the 1930's. Many Euclid plants laid off workers or put them on short work weeks.
With the economy the way it was, no one was surprised at the results of the 1982 elections, which found the Democrats picking up a number of congressional seats. In Ohio, many Democrats were swept into office on the strength of Richard Celeste's gubernatorial victory.
Nationally, the Procter & Gamble Company was shocked to learn that several bottles of its Extra Strength Tylenol had been tampered with, resulting in the deaths of several people from cyanide poisoning. Auto company executives were surprised by John DeLorean, who was arrested for cocaine dealing in a wild scheme to help finance his ailing auto company. On the positive side, the country was pleasantly surprised at the success of Barney Clark, who became the recipient of the world's first artifical heart in an operation performed at the University of Utah.

News on the international level was filled with debate over nuclear disarmament, the MX and cruise missiles, and the defense budget in general. In the summer and fall, the world watched as the Israelis invaded southern Lebanon to drive out Palestinian Liberation forces. The event caused a shake-up of the Israeli government when Lebanese Christian militia extremists massacred hundreds of Palestinian women and children. Finally, the world was surprised by the death of Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev and the assumption by Yuri Andropov of the leadership of the Russian government.

In sports news, the biggest story of the year was the professional football strike, which canceled out seven weeks of the season. Although the Browns finished the season 4-5, they made the playoffs, only to be eliminated in the first game by the Los Angeles Raiders. In the Super Bowl, the Washington Redskins edged the Miami Dolphins 27-17.
Baseball saw the St. Louis Cardinals overpower the Milwaukee Brewers to take the World Series. The Indians ended the season tied for last place. However, they surprised a few fans with a December trade that sent their star outfielder Von Hayes to Philadelphia for second baseman Manny Trillo and three other players.
In pro basketball, the Caveliers were the doormats of the NBA as they suffered through a losing season and financial difficulty. The only bright spot of their season was the performance of guard World B. Free.
Finally, the world was saddened by the deaths of film stars Henry Fonda, Grace Kelly, and Ingrid Bergman; football coach Paul "Bear"'Bryant; novelist John Cheever; jazz musician Thelonius Monk; singer Karen Carpenter; and musician/composer Eubie Blake.

10efense and the ground ga-me-these were the two key factors in the success of the 1983 Panther Varsity Football team. Euclid's defense ranked first in the G.C.C. in total defense, in rushing defense, and in pass interceptions. Greg Fondran was the G.C.C.'s leading interceptor, snatching five enemy passes on the year. The pass rush of defensive strongholds Vic Martin, John Barndt, Frank Bauck, John Minissale, and Jack Richardson was also a big factor in the defensive success story.

As the awesome Panther defense contained the enemy running game, the offensive line of Lou Nieves, George Caplick, John Zele, Stacy Jones, and Bill Nachtigal dynamited holes for Euclid's ground crew. Senior tailback Paul Pallante, the team's leading scorer ran for over 1,000 yards and was the G.C.C.'s second leading rusher.

Senior John Hribar gained over 500 yards at the fullback spot, and quarterback Mike Szmania connected on $54 \%$ of his passes to take second in the G.C.C. in passing percentage. Another team asset was experience. Twenty-eight seniors returned this year, many of them starters in their junior year, and the team also had 26 juniors at the start of the season. By the end of the season, the team had compiled an outstanding 6-3-1 record, 3 shutouts, and a third place finish in the conference.
Special awards were earned by Paul Pallante (MVP), Lou Nieves (Outstanding Offensive Lineman), Vic Martin (Outstanding Defensive Lineman), and John Plevelich (Champion of the Year). Martin, who wassidelined with an ankle injury for the first three games, was honored with the All-GCC status as were Lou Nieves and Greg Fondran. Pallante was elected GCC coplayer of the year.

This year's Junior Varsity Football squad completed an excellent season. The sophomores finistied second in the Greater Cleveland Confer ence with 7 wins, 1 loss, and 2 tiès.

The JV. Panther defense was first rate, limiting their opponents to only 35 points in 10 games. The offense, led by running backs Kurt Conway and Vic Pringle, was quarterbacked by Scott Szmania. They averaged 14.3 points per game, easily beating the average score of opposing of

Booters Take GCC

The 1983 Varsity Soccer team took the G.C.C. by storm, stealing the conference crown for the first time ever Its season record was the best in the school's history and included a streak of 12 consecutive games without a loss. Highlighting the win streak were victories over defending co-champions Brush and North.
Senior Mark Wardeiner was the team's outstanding offensive player and the Plain Dealer Player of the Week. Team MVP Lou Bartulovic was also a member of the All-District First Team and was a News Herald Player of the Week. Chris Van De Motter, a junior, won the Outstanding Hustle Award, while sophomore goalie Marko Prpic was the Outstanding Defensive Player and a News Herald Player of the Week. All four were members of the G.C.C. first team, while seniors Greg Garland, Rich Rozic, and Rupert Hird made the All-G.C.C. second team. G.C.C. Coach of the Year, Euclid's own Greg Sattler, said that the 1983 squad was "the best group of team players" and that he "was proud to have coached Euclid's first championship team."

A young Junior Varsity Soccer team finished with 4 wins, 6 losses, and 1 tie this year. Seven ninth graders ended up starting at one time or another during the season. Accordingly, the team did poorly in the first few games. The team was unbeaten, however, in the last 3 games. Several of the older players, like sophomore Kirk Dauer, helped provide leadership to the team. The late season winning streak showed the extent of the team's improvement.
Mr. Homovec felt that the addition of freshmen this year was a benefit to the team. He cited first quarter troubles as the team's main handicap. Again, this points to inexperience as the team's problem.

The rest of the team did very well. Senior Tony Foskey nearly qualified for districts, losing a 3 -player tiebreaker. The team as a whole scored in the high 30 's and low 40's all season. The depth provided by this caliber of players was a crucial part in the team's success. Coach Raicevich was also lucky to have a young team with such fully developed playing skills.

erhaps one of the most fatiguing sports at EHS is water polo. Players on this team have to tread water and, or, swim for the duration of the game, and they are completely exhausted by the end of the play. Thus, there is much emphasis on conditioning at practice. Players also have to practice swimming with and passing the ball.

Captains Adam Race and George Miller led the team to a 56 record along with Phil Gron, Darrin Wagner, Dennis Dickard, Pat Le Quyea, Bob Nacinovich, and Joe $O^{\prime}$ Neill. The team narrowly missed a trip to the state tourney as they lost a tough match to Canton Glen Oak, 11-7 in the final round of the district tournament.

The Wai Napolo Club practiced all year for its show, a three-night stand in May. The club put on a show of synchronized swimming to music, a sort of water ballet, and it held candy and bake sales to raise funds for costumes.
Terri Nickel, the club's president commented, "It took a lot of hard work to get ready for the show. Timing is extremely important, so the routines had to be practiced many times." Other club officers included Sue Reinke, vice-president; and Janet Larkins, secretary. Treasurer Kirsten Frech held the funds for the group, and Maureen Colling was the club historian. Maureen was responsible for recording the club's year in a scrapbook.

国量he 1982 boys' varsity cross country team was a young squad. Of the five returning seniors, only captain Mike Colo had any appreciable experience as a varsity runner. By the end of the season, however, Colo, Jim AIlay, Gary Tressler, Dennis Rymarcyzk, Ed Linder, Matt Basler and Ed Tepley led the team to a second place finish in the G.C.C.

Top honors were taken by Mike Colo for MVP, Vince Rattini for the Most Improved Runner and Jim Allay for the Most Valuable Sophomore.
What is girls' cross country? Take about 13 girls and work them very hard. Next, tell them to run a 3.1 mile race and pass all of the people with jerseys different from their own. That is exactly what the girls' cross country team did as it compiled a superb dual meet record of five wins and no losses.
The team was a young but experienced group as the lone pair of returning seniors, captains Diane Rolik and Kate McLaughlin, were supported by eleven strong and extremely talented underclassmen.
Kris Faletic, the team's most outstanding runner, was also Euclid's lone state qualifer. Kris also holds the season's best time and new school record of 19:31 in the 5000 meter ( 3.1 mile) race. Other top honors were taken by Diane Rolik for the Outstanding Senior, Noreen O'Donnell for the Outstanding Junior and Jenny Schwartz for the Most Improved Runner.
The 1982 ninth grade boys' and girls' cross country teams finished their seasons undefeated in dual meet competition. The boys' team was led by Billy Bell and Scott Burton. The girls were led by Jodi Wollmershauser and Robin Ramlow. Bell and Wollmershauser set new school records for the cross-country course.

feniors Lisa Berardinelli, Nina Matic, Wendy Potokar, and Jean Savage formed the core of the 1983 Varsity Volleyball squad and led the team to a third place finish in the G.C.C. Aside from these four returning seniors, the team was very young and lacking in depth.

This year's JV Volleyball squad was coach Pat Buck's eighth such team. She says of her players' season, "They worked very hard and I saw steady improvement. We also had a lot of fun!"

Laura Saletrick was named Most Valuable Setter, Margie McCance received Most Valuable Server, and McCance and Josie Jules were picked as Most Valuable Hitters.

Miss Buck's main goal was to see her players improve in their skills, and for the most part, this goal was reached. "I would like to make every player good enough to play on the varsity squad and provide it with depth."
"Many people judge a team on its record, but I feel that a winning record isn't everything-improving the team is what counts. The girls progressed together as a team and I was very pleased."

5hen asked what she thought of this year's freshmen volleyball team, head coach Kathy Rogers said, "For the number of ninth graders that went out for the team, there was a lot of talent to work with." This talent was evident as the girls lost only one regular season game.
The highlight of the freshman season was the Mentor-Shore Tournament. Euclid finished third in the tournament and brought home a consolation trophy.
Team Captain Amy Suponic and Diane Rossman were elected as Most Outstanding Players. Diane scored 62 points on the season, while Amy scored 57 . The success was due to team effort, though, and as Coach Rogers commented, "In the beginning of the season, the kids all played as individuals because they came from different schools and had different coaches, but by the end of the season, they were working very well as a team."
This year's team goals were to work together, to improve serving, and to get in condition. Mrs. Rodgers commented, "I felt that these goals were reached and it was obvious by their season record."

What does love have to do with tennis? Is it the lovely ladies on the tennis team? Or is it the term that means "no points" in tennis? Actually, it's what the girls tried to avoid showing on the courts.
In no way did they show any love for their opponents. Their 5-0 shutout was no kind gift to Regina, while their 3-2 win over Mayfield was no act of human kindness. After several long, grueling matches and a pair of third-set tiebreakers, the first doubles team finally dealt the coup de grace in another triple-set match.
Leading the racket were senior captains Sue Mooney and Beth Carman and seniors Hillary Hook, Jennifer Jaroscak, Jane Mast, and Allison Mersnik.
Top honors went to Sue Mooney for Outstanding Player and Tracy Thomas as the most improved player.
One word of advice: be wary of these girls- they might just slap you with their backhand.

Practice Makes Perfect

High school sports are not everyone's bag. They are both physically and emotionally draining. They demand hard work, endurance and a high degree of discipline at what people affectionately call "practice".

Now, as any athlete will tell you, "practicing" their given sport is only part of the story. Staying in good shape is another part. Most athletes run and lift weights in the off season. During the season, running is common to nearly all sports as the swimmers, wrestlers, basketballers, tracksters, and, yes, even the swimmers can be seen down on the indoor track.

Discipline is an essential part of every sport. While you're warm and cozy in your little bed, members of the swim team are plunging into the ice cold water in the pool. It's hard to believe that anyone would get up at 5:30 for swim practice, and it's also hard to believe that a basketball player once had to run 25 miles for missing five practices, but it's true. In fact, basketball is one of the more disciplined sports at E.H.S. as players may not talk, sit, or even drink water at practice, and coaches of both the girls and boys teams penalize loafers and the tardy with sprints. Even football players enjoy some discipline as they find themselves practicing from 8 A.M. to 4 P.M. on those hot days of August, asking, perhaps the most frequent question of athletes: "Why am I here?"

Aside from the hard work and discipline, practices must invariably stress fundamentals, scrimmages, and sportsmanship. Practice can be fun and even rewarding as well. Most athletes enjoy what they're doing or they wouldn't be there in the first place. After a morning workout, swimmers can look forward to a gourmet breakfast consisting of Tang or milk and cold pop tarts, while the guys on basketball look for that victory holding their opponents to under 50 points to earn them a pizza party.

All in all, athletics are an important part of the high school experience. They develop mature, disciplined adults and make better sports of us all.

5espite injuries to ace guard Bob Daugherty, which sidelined him for half the season, the varsity basketball team captured second place in the GCC and finished 16-8 overall. Picking up the slack in his absence, Mike Zuzek, Rusty Mazzaro, Tony Gholson, Jerry Murphy, and Jerome Young were consistent double-figure scorers throughout the season. This quick, aggressive squad executed precision passing to make up for its lack of size and strength.

Coach Doc Daugherty, who hoped his team would peak near the end of the season, saw his dream fulfilled as the Panthers compiled a string of six straight victories to cap the regular season.

Highlights of the season included the late-season nail-biters versus Wickliffe and North. At Wickliffe, the see-saw battle ended with Daugherty's jump shot at the buzzer. The Winterfest game against North went down to the wire as well with Jerome Young doing the honors with a last-second underhand shot.

Rising Stars

国he JV and freshman basketball teams proved to be rising stars in the constellation that is Euclid basketball.

Although the JV's got off to a stumbling start, dropping three of their first four games, one a conference game against arch-rival Mentor, Coach Turkall kept the team from feeling down. They bounced back to take twelve of their next fourteen games, nine of which were conference victories. Two of these were decided in the last seconds. In the first, a rematch against Mentor, Scott Szmania made two foul shots to win the game with no time left on the clock. The second nailbiter saw the JV's beat Wickliffe on a halfcourt shot Szmania in overtime.

Like their JV counterparts, the freshmen also had a winning season. Paced by the shooting of Neal McLain and Dana Gollner and the rebounding of center Kevin Thomas, the freshmen finished their season with an admirable 112 record.

Certain events stood out during the season. One was the unexpected layoff of arch-rival Eastlake North due to a teachers' strike. This enabled the Euclid girls to remain near the top of the conference while the Eastlake team was idle.

High points included a six-game winning streak and a 3rd place finish in the G.C.C. This year was also notable for the defection of several athletes from the swim team to the basketball team.

Third-year head coach Mike Girimont, coming off last season as GCC Coach-of-the-Year, was assisted by Bob Cantini and Ray Force.

A Winning Pair

霊he 1982-1983 girls' JV basketball team finished their season with an outstanding 16-4 record. When the smoke cleared, it was good enough to land them in third place in the GCC.

Freshman Denise Holley led the Lady Panthers in scoring and rebounding. Leading the offensive attack was Margie McCance while Tammy Cantini, Laura Walsh, Laura Tortarella, Doreen Tracey and Chris Kucera contributed heavily to the team's success.
"We had a tough defense and a smooth running offense," remarked coach Bob Cantini. The girls averaged 25 points per game. The previous experience many of the girls had with the sport in junior high was also a contributing factor to their fine record. By the end of the season, Margie McCance and Denise Holley had advanced to the varsity level. Summing up the season, Chris Kucera noted that "much of the reason we did well was because we played as a team."

The first freshman girls' basketball team in Euclid's history rounded out their season with a 5-2 record. It was a season of ups and downs, but generally served to give the girls their first experience in high school basketball. Coach Force commented "Overall we had an exciting season, especially our victory over Geauga. It's been great."

 he 1982-83 hockey team came in third in the always tough Cleveland East Division, and did well in two holiday tournaments.

The season started out slowly with a 3-2 loss to Padua in the home opener, but the Panthers bounced back to defeat Rocky River 3-2 in overtime the next day. Euclid next went to St. Edward's to lose 6-3 in what was the team's worst game of the season. Euclid's cross-town rivals then came in, and the Panthers handed St. Joseph a 4-1 loss.

The Thornton Park Holiday Tournament was next, with the Panthers winning consolation champions. The team was then on to Findlay for another tournament. There, Euclid pulled out an overtime victory against Upper Arlington to come in second place. The rest of the icers' victories came against Trinity, St. Joseph, Brooklyn, Kent Roosevelt, University School and Shaker Heights.

played games by the Panthers all year. First Euclid defeated University 3-2 at Thornton Park. Next, they traveled to Kent for a $6-4$ victory. Finally Shaker came to town to suffer a 4-1 loss to the tough Panthers.

This year's team has set many mile stones: beating Kent twice, defeating Shaker, and making the Baron Cup for the first time in four years. Special recognition goes to Tom Carlson, and Bob Campbell high scorers, and Gordie McCance and Tom Carlson, captains.

Miracle On The Mats

The wrestlers finished with a 8-5 record that belied their strong finishes against several area powerhouses and in tournaments.
The Panther matmen were paced by the performance of Troy Cantini, Todd King, Tim Szalay, and "wildman" Pete Totarella, among others. Pat Crestoff did a good job during the season, moving from the 119 to the 126 pound position and wrestling in spite of damaged ligaments and cartilage in his knee.
Crestoff moved to the 126 pound spot to sub temporarily for Troy Cantini, who was sidelined along with Todd King with intestinal flu during mid-season.
Standout meets of the year were the Ashtabula Edgewood Tournament and the Mayfield dual meet.

The Mayfield match was a surprise upset the defending G.C.C. champions. The match ended with Senior John Hribar battling to preserve Euclid's margin of victory. Although Hribar lost the match, he wasn't pinned, therefore saving the Euclid win.

The season was full of ups and downs for the Panthers. As coach Harry King commented, "We haven't had the same starting lineup for two straight weeks during any part of the season." The team settled down in the late part of the season, as shown by their 56-12 and 46-17 crushings of Brush and South respectively.

 ebounding from a debut loss to powerhouse Akron Buchtel, Euclid's underground runners beat former state cochamps John Adams in what was perhaps the most exciting meet of the season. The Panther runners took 7 of 14 first places including Paul Pallante's record-breaking performance in the 330 -yard low hurdles ( 39.5 seconds).

Pallante, a senior tri-captain, led the sprinters and hurdlers along with Aubrey Ward, Paul McGraw, Ray Ward, and Rob Wilson.

Leading the distance crew were senior tri-captain Mike Colo, Gary Tressler, Dennis Rymarczyk, and Brett Molnar, while Chris Burton, Mark Archie, Andy Powaski, and Jeff Barnard were the tops in middle distance events.

Senior tri-captain Frank Bauck led the weightmen with Jeff Tekanic and John Stokes, while Mark Wardeiner, also a hurdler, led the high jumpers. Mark King, another high jumper was the team's leading pole vaulter.

For the females, Wendy Potokar, sprinter and hurdler, was among the top girls in the area as was teammate Amy Nemecek.

The team capped its $12-1$ season by sweeping the six-team Euclid Invitational.

Top: Senior Wendy Potokar was one of the lop lady sprinters and hurdlers in the area. Middle: Paul Pallante, tri-captain, set a new record in the low hurdles ( 39.5 secs.).

acing a lack of experienced swimmers, the boys' swim team worked overtime to defend the GCC title. About 25 swimmers had never swam competitively before, while only seven members returned from last year's squad.

Led by senior captain Darrir Wagner, Phil Gron, George Miller, Adam Race, Pat LeQuyea, Mike Jaskewicz, Kevin Ayers, and Frank Strohmyer, the boys finished 3-1 in the conference, losing only to Bedford. Peaking near the end of the season, the guys swamped Maple Heights in the all eleven first places.
First-year head coach Dan Maxson was pleased with the continued improvement of the underclassmen and said that it was a substantial factor in the team's success.

Wagner, LeQuyea, Jaskewicz, and Miller led the sprinters, while Gron and Race were the team's distance horses. Leading the diving crew was junior Bob Nacinovich.

0espite the disadvantages of a new scoring system, the lady swimmers were undefeated in conference action and retained the GCC crown for the third consecutive year.
The new system, which decreased the number of scoring places from five to four in open events and allowed each team two places per event, tended to favor teams with outstanding individuals rather than team depth.
However, several strong performers came through to defeat the handicap. Senior captain Jo Ann Zele, one of the top swimmers in the district, was the team's leading scorer. Divers Jane Mast and Amy Jo Nemecek were among the top ten in the area and were significant contributors to the team's success, as were Dawn Schmeling, Sharon Kelly, Deena Lucci, Jenny Jaroscak, Beth Carman, Lisa Coyne, and Colleen Coyne.

Braving

The Elements

Seniors Hillary Hook and Jenny Jaroscak brave the slopes of the Cockaigne Ski Resort in New York.

The Ski Club is one of the largest groups at EHS, counting 90 students among its members. At the start of winter, a lack of snow resulted in poor skiing conditions and in the grounding of several ski trips. But as the season progressed, the conditions did improve, and the group did hit the slopes for the first time on January 6th. Everyone was excited about the first trip, but for some it was marred by a tragic incident. Six skiers, none of whom were Euclid students were seriously injured when several chairs derailed from the ski lift.
Two weeks later, on Martin Luther King day, 45 skiers rode up the slopes of Cockainge Ski Resort in New York. Gearing up at 9 a.m. all enjoyed an exhilerating day of skiing on some excellent slopes. A few challenged the "Peppermint Twist", a fast, wicked, steep run.

The Outdoor Club, under the direction of Frank Soltesz, planned outdoor activities includ1) a spring camping trip. This year's president was John Meyer.

Numerous Duties Make Sports Aides Irue

5ports aides are just as important to the functioning of a sporting event as the players. They do plenty of work on the sidelines to keep the team going and to keep the score. Some aides even help out at practices.

Wrestling aides spend a lot of time at practice, getting water and first aid supplies for the wrestlers. They are also responsible for keeping the mats clean for the guys. They also function as scorekeepers at matches and scorers for wrestle-offs.

Hockey aides were called upon to keep stats for the team and make spirits signs. They also presented the players with flowers and make scrap books for the seniors.

The track teams were blessed with a group of aides who ran the meets. The girls timed running events, ran field events, and kept score as they took a lot of the worry off the minds of the coaches.

The basketball aides sweep the floors before and after games and practices. Swim timers man six lanes of the pool and also run results to the judges. Football aides have many responsibilities, too: taping arms, hands, wrists and ankles and getting water and ice when needed is all in a day's work.

Performing these important jobs, the sports aides are truly sideline saviors.

Below: Who says teachers are predictable? Mr. Reno's students were given a dose of Halloween spirit as he donned a clown costume on the Halloween dress-up day.

Fhe academics of Euclid High were brought into a much larger perspective in the 19821983 school year. The addition of 529 new students in the form of a freshman grade level brought with it 25 new teachers. New counselors and support staff were also added to insure the "Excellence in Education" the Euclid Schools are famous for. Even though there were more students, each was still given the opportunity to progress as far as he or she desired.

Students/Teachers

ome EHS graduates have spent considerably more than the usual three years in the haloed halls of Euclid High. They are the twenty-three members of the present faculty and staff who are graduates of Euclid High School.

Mrs. Ardelle Harrell, secretary of the ninth grade unit office, was a member of EHS's first graduating class in 1950. Mrs. Harrell remembers the halls as being much less crowded than they are today.

Tenth grade unit secretary, Mrs. Jan Kehn, a 1955 graduate, recalls that her class was the last one to hold graduation ceremonies in the school's auditorium. From then on, senior classes were too large for the school facilities to accommodate. Commencement ceremonies the following year took place at the Music Hall and continued there until the late 1970's, when they were moved to the Front Row Theatre.

Mrs. Amy Bell, Dr. Bergem's secretary, recalls that her 1956 graduating class was the first one to have an allnight prom. Fellow alumnus Mr. James Simpson, a member of the class of 1966, also recalls his class's all-night prom at TRW.

Mr. Simpson also notes that the EHS building is much bigger now than when he was a student here. In fact, additions were already being made in the mid1950's, when the E-room and the auto shop were built. The third floor of the south wing and the cross corridors were added in the 1960's when the school population swelled. The last addition was made in the early 1970's when the boys' gym, boys' pool, the Little Theatre, planetarium, and the north wing of classrooms were built.

what has twelve eyes, speaks three languages, and can probably beat you at PacMan? Answer: the Hewlett-Packard, the central piece of hardward in EHS's new computer lab.
The Hewlett-Packard has twelve terminals and is functional in three popular computer languages: Fortran, Cobal, and Pascal. Mr. Charles Reno, computer science teacher, stated, "This system very closely represents the type found in the business world today."
In addition to the HewlettPackard, several Apple II and TRS80 minicomputers were purchased. Two computer lab technicians were also hired to keep the equipment running and to help students with programming problems.

EHS students give the computer lab high marks. Junior Mike Ucic said, "Being exposed to computers gives a student a head start in the career world. Sophomore Tom Gravizi explained, "It gives me experience on the Apple II that can apply to my future."

Computer science teacher Mr. Adam Pawlowski described the new lab as "a fantastic system with tremendous capability." In fact, the lab is expected to meet the school's needs into the 1990's.

The Day The Real World

The real world paid EHS a visit in the form of twentysix business and community leaders who spent November 16th in the high school teaching classes in a Back to School program sponsered by the Euclid Teachers Association.

Most students found the program an interesting change from the routine class day. One student described Mrs. Shimonek, who took over Miss Bosworth's classes, as "really good because she was so peppy and interesting." In describing his class with Mr. James Phillips, who took over Mr. Kalka's classes, another student said, "He talked on how to pass a bill and used minimum wage, which is a sore subject with us students, as an example. We amended it to read 'under 16 ' and then passed it. He really understood what he was saying, and we learned a lot."

Mrs. Patricia Phillips summarized the feelings of the Back to School teachers when she said, "I really enjoyed my day as a guest teacher. It was a real learning experience for me."

After The Last Bell Rings

5o, what do teachers do after school is over? Spend all evening correcting tests? Or worse yet, making up new ones? Most students might be surprised at some of the things teachers do after the last bell rings.

Some staff members are involved in organizations associated with their duties at school. For example, cross-country coach Mr. Thomas Halbedel is president of the Northeast Ohio Track and Cross-Country Coaches Association, and Mrs. Rosalie Fette is a member of the State Executive Board of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees. Baseball coach Mr. Paul Serra spends his spare time as director of the Euclid Recreation Department's men's and boys' basketball programs.

Other teachers continue to use their educational skills even after the last bell rings. Mr. Antony Mancuso, for instance, is a member of the Wickliffe Board of Education. Chemistry teacher Mrs. Marilyn Lucas serves as the current president of the Science Education Council of Ohio and testified this year at the State Minimum Standards for Education hearings on behalf of higher science requirements in high schools. Finally, Mr. Doc Richards works part-time as a reference librarian at the Mentor Public Library.

For some teachers, the last bell at EHS is the first one of a second school day. Mr. Thomas Stokes, for example, teaches pottery in night school while Mr. Fred Sallach is a part time instructor at both Tri-C and Lakeland community colleges. Mr . Raymond Leopold doubles as an English and Spanish instructor at Borromeo College, and Mr. Antony Palermo is finishing his thirtythird year as a language instructor at John Carroll University.

While EHS students spend their summers at the beach, Mr. David Saywell spends his working on the Goodtime II. Mr. Robert Ramlow manages the Wildwood Lake Recreation Park during the summer while Mr. Robert Hutson, a Lieutenant Colonel in the Army Reserve, teaches at the Command and General College in Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. Finally, while many students pass the summer hanging out on the sidewalk, Mr. Frank Jirovec uses his summertime to inspect the sidewalks for the city of Lyndhurst.

So, what do teachers do after school is over? The answer is obvi-ous- -everything!

Making The Grade

The word test conjures up many thoughts, but to most high school students, tests are connected to a measure of success or failure, mostly in the form of grades.

Most students hate the thought of testing, but since tests are unavoidable, each student has formed his own opinions on what type of test is to be preferred over another.

Any group of high school students will tell you that they most prefer objective tests: true-false, fill in, and multiple choice. According to senior Kim Norton, the over-all favorite is multiple choice.

The subject in which the test is being given has much to do with students' impressions of it. For example, Mark Gaylor likes to take multiple choice tests in biology and American history while Michelle Micale prefers "any kind of English test."

Without a doubt, students find essay tests the hardest. Sophomores Lee Mason, Sue Larkins, and Chris Cahoon detest the thought of essay tests in history or English. Likewise, junior Ron Lesnik doesn't like essay tests in Spanish class.

Although students may differ on the merits of the objective versus the essay test, all would agree with Missy Malone, who said that she disliked hard tests the most.

Euclid High has been a vital part of the community since its opening in the fall of 1949. The academic and sports records and distinguished graduates challenge those of any other school in the country. To gain a better perspective of the present and future, it is necessary to look upon past achievements.

In 1953, Euclid was celebrating its fourth anniversary. "We will be very successful here," observed Euclid High's first vice principal and present school board president Mr. Walter Schwegler. The superintendent at the time, Dr. Fordyce, also expressed those feelings when he said, "I feel that we will be better this year academically than in the past."

Over the years, extra-curricular activities have certainly changed. In 1953, the Ukelele Club was just getting organized under the direction of Tom Carney. He played such favorites as "I Went to Your Wedding", a Patti Page favorite, at the Euclid Roller Drome.

The senior class of 1953 led the school in the total number of students on the honor roll. $10 \%$ of that group were included on the "Distinguished" list.

Many new clubs and organizations established themselves at Euclid in 1953. The Movie Club produced such classics as A Day in the Life of a Sophomore while the first issue of the school's literary magazine, Eucuyo (Eu for Euclid, cuy for Cuyahoga, o for Ohio) was produced. "All in all," commented student council president Sue Spangler, "this was a very good year."
By 1963, music was becoming popular. Dance bands, pianists, singers, and other talented musicians at EHS were hiring themselves out for anywhere from $$ 10$ to $$ 50$ per performance. Also in 1963, the EHS Concert Band, Choral Masters, and Girls' Glee Club went to the State Band and Choral Finals.
Academic standards in 1963 were very high, as they are today. Connie Krennel won a cash prize for her entry dealing with the reaction of acid and bases in the Ohio Science Fair. The seniors still captured the top spot on the honor roll with a total of 58 students. The sophomores followed with 33, while the juniors came in last with 30.

Activities in 1963 provided a fun way to make friends and be entertained. The school's newspaper, The Survey, won a first place rating in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's annual contest, scoring 923 of 100 possible points.

By 1973, the sons and daughters of original Panthers were appearing in the pages of the Survey and Euclidian.
Academically, 1973 was another good year. Sue Baumeister won the Sohio Award in an essay contest. She received a $$ 1600$ scholarship to the college of her choice. Pass-fail grades made their first appearance. They were instituted promarily for the benefit of the honors students. Eleven EHS students displayed art in a scholastic exhibition. Five took top honors while the other six won gold medals. The 1973 Office Education Association award was won by Sue Parry, who traveled to Albuquerque, New Mexico, to participate in the national OEA convention.
The first exchange teacher joined the faculty in 1973. Mrs. Vivenne Kuster from England was favorably impressed by the friendliness and openness of the students, 1973 also saw the founding of the Psychology Club. It studied student behavior and tried to determine why students acted the way they did.
Principal Walter Schwegler kicked off the 1973 school year by wishing everyone good luck and expressing hope that the students and faculty would keep up the Euclid tradition of excellence.
The big academic news of the 1982-1983 was the appearance of the ninth grade at EHS. Besides 500 more students, many junior high teachers moved to the high school.
Scholastically, more computer science classes were offered than in the past because of the enlarged computer facilities. Euclid students scored 41 points better on the verbal section of the SAT test than the national average: 467 versus 426 . Senior Elaine Haupt was a winner in the prestigious National Council of Teachers of English essay contest. Finally, Haupt, along with four other seniors: Jim Ambrose, Dan Moster, Sue Suponcic, and Wendy Swyt, were selected as National Merit Semi-Finalists.

国ake a comprehensive, three-year high school; add to it another grade level and $500+$ more students; and what do you have? Answer: EHS this year.
The moving of the ninth grade to the high school brought about a number of changes. A large amount of books and equipment that was originally at Shore Junior High was moved to EHS during the summer for the use of the ninth graders. This equipment included such heavy pieces as lathes and drill presses to be used in the expanded wood and metal shop classes.
Besides changes in the industrial arts rooms, a new computer room was added, and many unused classrooms were pressed into service to accommodate the freshmen. Room 142, formerly a business education room, was converted into the office for the Euclid school employees' credit union, while room 260, as English classroom in the past, was made into an additional typing classroom.
In addition to equipment and classrooms, more than twentyfive new faces were added to the EHS faculty and staff this year. Most of these were former junior high teachers who moved up to the high school with the ninth graders. For example Mr. Ed Czyzycki a former counselor at Shore, teamed up with Mr. Roger Brown, a EHS social studies teacher last year, as counselors in the ninth grade unit office.

Right: The new computer lab was one of the biggest physical changes made to the school in 1982-1983. Below: Much of Shore's shop equipment was brought to EHS for use by the ninth graders. Bottom: The librarians were kept busy trying to find books needed by the ninth graders.

Big Change

Mrs. Mary Lomac: American History, American Government. Mr. Theodore C. Lomac: Algebra I, II; Basic Math. Mr. Robert A. Lombardo: twelfth grade unit principal. Mr. Kenneth Lowe: Phase English, English I; Student Council co-adviser.

There have been many changes at EHS this year, with the major one, of course, being the addition of the ninth grade; and Dr. Bergem was very pleased with the way everyone adjusted.

According to Dr. Bergem, there have been adjustments for everyone, faculty as well as students. A big change for the teachers was the sharing of classrooms. The teachers had to share rooms because there were more students this year and more teachers than there were classrooms. Teachers who moved up from the junior highs had to adjust to the high school building and procedures.

In sports, changes were made to accommodate the ninth grade teams. Problems had to be worked out concerning practice and game times and areas.

The cafeteria was another area that experienced a few changes. Besides juggling what was served in the different lunch lines, the time the students could enter the cafeteria was staggered to allow for the greater number of students.
Although Dr. Bergem said that there were a few unexpected changes, the ninth graders' enthusiasm and spirit added much to improve EHS, Above, right: One of the unexpected changes at the beginning of the year was the extra-long lunch lines. Fortunately, the staggering of lunch times solved the problem. Right: Some classrooms were modified to accommodate the ninth graders. Room 260 , formerly an English classroom, functioned as a typing room this year. With an eye toward the future, the counselors put in extra hours this year to start the freshmen and sophomores off on the right foot at EHS.

Counselors met with all the ninth and tenth graders several times in the first semester to discuss study skills and generally acclimate the underclassmen to high school life.
The counselors also administered the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey (OVIS) to all the underclassmen in September. According to sophomore counselor Dr. Robert Crary, the purpose of the test was to help students learn what their vocational interests are.

Counselors reviewed the findings of the OVIS with the underclassmen, and the results were sent home with the students' first report cards.

In general, students thought that the time and effort spent on the OVIS testing and follow up worthwhile. Chris Betts commented, "I liked them because they really gave me an idea of what I might be interested in." Sue Swyt joked that she didn't mind them because "they got me out of class," but admitted "they really did help me with scheduling."

Counselors, teachers, and students themselves said the time spent on the OVIS was a wise invetment for the future.

Back To Basics

Vocational classes are designed to prepare those students who take them for the future by improving basic business skills and allowing students to hone them in a business environment. Mrs. Williams' Cooperative Office Education students, for example, worked parttime in area businesses. Some of them also experienced the hardship of a lay-off when the recession deepened.

Vocational students also partook of activities designed to add excitement to the school year. The Stenography II class had an entry in the Homecoming Parade and sold Christmas Wishes, while Stenography I students collected food at Thanksgiving and visited the Slovenian Home for the Aged to pass out cookies at Christmas.

Besides developing basic job skills, vocational classes offer students business experience and fun.

Changing Times

国ssues that arose during the 1982-1983 school year caused the Euclid Board of Education to look at things in a new perspective.

For instance, starting in 1985, nineteen credits will be needed for a student to graduate from EHS. According to EHS principal Dr. Jerry Bergem, this will encourage more students to take more courses. In another change, the Board approved classes in Latin for next year.

Now that the ninth grade is at EHS, the Board also tackled the question of what to call the former junior highs. Since they now only house the seventh and eighth grades, the tendency is to call them middle schools. However, according to William Dodds, Director of Instruction, "Despite what nameplate is on the door, the quality of education is the key."

A final important issue is the reduced school funding instituted by the new Ohio governor, Richard Celeste. The reduction caused board members to take a close look at the budget and to make every effort to reduce the number of delinquent property taxes in Euclid.

In spite of school funding problems and a faltering economy, the Board continued to lead the school system down the road to excellent education.

he 1982-1983 underclass was the first in the history of Euclid High to include a freshman grade level. The addition brought about many changes in academics, sports and activities. "It really makes me feel older when I see all the little ninth graders," commented one junior. Regardless of age, the underclassmen put forth their best effort in establishing their place at Euclid High.

A 'Crash Course' In Driver's Ed.

0river's education, taught by Mrs. Bliss and Mrs. Billard, is taken by every student hopeful of driving. This class is held on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. in room 203.

Halfway through the fall course, the car was not in working order. This situation presented a problem because of the state requirement for six hours of practice driving. The state also requires forty hours of in-school class sessions. The age limit for entering driving class is sixteen by the second week of class. All students are required to obtain their temporary licenses before driving the car. In the past, the course has had a $98 \%$ success record. Students going to take the test for the first time have about an $80 \%$ chance of passing.
Recently, most students who are under sixteen years of age are worrying about the rumor that the driving age will be raised to eighteen. At present, the law has been introduced in the state legislature but will not be voted on until July of 1983.
When asked why she enjoys teaching, Mrs. Bliss replied, "I enjoy teenagers. I think the kids at Euclid are really nice, and I really enjoy teaching. Most students who come to Driver's Ed. are willing to put in the time and effort to get their certificate. That makes my job a lot easier."
Driver's Ed. may have its scary times in the car, but any student will say that the class is worthwhile.

The Good Old Summertime

園uclid is truly a community coming together. The Downtown Euclid Festival, held every summer for the past three years, is evidence of this. 75,000 people attended this year's event, which had something for every generation: crafts and kiddie rides for the children, and auto show for the adult set, and concerts and rides for the teens. The crowd were served up many different kinds of refresment and constant entertainment, including on appearance of the Singing Angels.

A special focus was placed on the teenagers. Euclid is one of the few area communities that held a rock concert for its teens. It took place on the Friday night of the festival and was free to all.

Teens were also involved with booths for the EHS Boosters. Euclid

High School juniors helped out with the "Dunk the Dolly", and the "Wheel of Fortune" booth, and the Euclid Boys' League "Pitch and Win" booth. They also assisted in the cleanup of the festival grounds.

Some of Euclid High Students had a chance to exercise their talents to make this event a success. The St. Robert's folk group, which includes EHS students, gave a performance. Also, the ads and posters were designed by a Euclid High student. The event helped our community get a better perspective of its diverse population.

Working For A Living

三三 三n today＇s economically tough times，employment is often hard to come by．Suprisingly， $42 \%$ of the Euclid High School ju－ niors polled held jobs．Considering the fact that teens are often the last hired and the first laid off，these stat－ istics are welcome news to job seek－ ers．
Most of the jobs held by the stu－ dent are in the areas of fast food and restaurant work．At present，the minimum wage is $$ 3.35$ per hour．Al－ though many juniors earn minimum wage，the average pay of those polled come out to $$ 3.18$ per hour． The average working student was found to labor 15 hours each week．
Among the junior males partici－ pating in the survey， $49 \%$ held a part－time job． $36 \%$ of the female re－ spondents indicated employment．

What these statistics show is that many Euclid High juniors know what they want and are not afraid of work－ ing to get it．Although most of the students polled hold jobs for obvi－ ous reasons like money for clothes and weekend activities，saving for higher education seems to be the prime motivation．Junior Dan Perme reflects this：＂I＇m working hard now to secure my college education．＂Ju－ nior Mike Schaefer also expressed this reasoning：＂I feel lucky to have a job so I can pursue my college edu－ cation．＂

| 20 |any cliques exist within Euclid High School. Each clique has its own type of people who have a common denominator: a need for friends. Students often seek people that are a reflection of themselves. They also look for someone who can provide them with friendship and understanding. Junior Faith Kardos described a friend as "someone who is not only there for the good times, but also the bad. Even when you are at your worst, they still love you."

Some students base their friendship on truth and honesty. Junior Lisa Vihtelic commented, "Everyone always talks about looking for honesty, but as you become better friends you acquire it."

The members of cliques feel that they stay with friends because they have the same interests and have shared many things. Junior Robyn Scherbarth speaks for many "I've stayed with the people who have stayed with me." All things considered, friends are an important part of high school life.

 unior Keith Drake has set his sights on the stars. This ambitious EHS student is involved with many NASA space programs outside of school. While most juniors spend their evenings watching television, Keith is preparing experiments for competition in the NASA Explorer Program. Keith competes for state, regional and national titles. He must work on research and prepare experiments in two month spans to create his over-all discovery. Every year Keith must start all over and prepare a new experiment to qualify.
All this work has paid off for the EHS student. For the last three years, he has ranked as a National Finalist. Four of his experiments are to be flown aboard the shuttle in the 25th mission of the Discovery, scheduled for 1987.
Drake is now eligible to be an astronaut as a result of scoring high on a civil service test. He knows this is only a start though: "My future goal is to fly in space, after college and five years in the astronaut program." With all his interest and involvement, this EHS junior is sure to reach his goal.

Music You Love To Watch

 n one cold, December day, Joe goes home and relaxes in his lounge chair in the corner of the living room. He checks the local television guide and sees that nothing interesting is on. He then clicks on his television and turns the cable channel to number 29. Suddenly, a vision appears. A vision of a different sort. It is the glory of rock and new wave music in stereo sound combined with the magic of cable television, which is indeed, Music Television (MTV).
Just what is MTV? It is like listening to the radio, but you can see the artists either performing the song or expressing it in a different way, such as computer graphics.
When asked what they liked better Music Television or the radio, students responded differently. Junior Denise Dulla said, "Radio doesn't compare to MTV!" Ron Lesnik responded, "With MTV you get more meaning from the song by watching the video. Finally, Bill Woods said, "Radio has more of a variety of music with more news and information."

10o you remember your first date? When one hundred juniors were polled, we found they all remembered. $91 \%$ of the juniors polled have had their first date. They were the average age of 13 . That memorable night took place at school dances, movies, parties, restaurants, skating rinks, and sports events. Transporation for this special night was supplied by most in the form of walking, while the rest rode in a car of parents or friends. Most recalled their first date as a night full of fun, excitement, and the jitters.

While the memories of the first date will live on, most students have continued to date since then. The most popular places for juniors to go are school dances, parties, movies, parks, restaurants and sporting events. These are not much different from the first places students chose. Junior Michele Twoey reflects, "My first date was really worth it, contrary to what I originally thought. Since then I date more often, and now going out with friends and other guys is enjoyable."

Moving Up In The World

Left: Dave McCandless seems well adjusted to EHS routine as he relaxes on the E-Room tables. Above: Sophomores spend much time hanging around the hallways.
 $t$ is weird changing from a junior high to a senior high, as seen through the eyes of sophomores. Here at Euclid there are more people, more teachers, and less time to get to your next class. The high school is a tad larger than the junior highs, about 150 rooms larger. And most of the EHS students are more mature than those in junior high.

One of the biggest problems is adapting to the high school "way of life", which is complicating. So many of the high school students are very fussy about how they dress and look, always combing their hair and fixing their clothes. Then there are the fads. The biggest among women this year are little "friendship pins", which they wear on their shoes. And another thing, if you don't wear Nike tennis shoes with alligator shoelaces, you are nothing but a biological outcast and won't leave without at least ten enemies a day.

Some sophomores told what they think of the EHS "way of life". Mary Kay Zahorsky said, "You all come together here at Euclid." Tim Holmes said, "It's more crowded here." Pam Miller said, "There are more social pressures here than at junior high." All in all, everyone soon adapts to the high school, and junior high bebecomes part of the stone age.

A Whole Host Of Hobbies

1Imost everyone has a hobby, ranging from a collection gathering dust in a drawer, to working in active organizations. According to a survey given in the beginning of the school year, sophomores have a wide range of hobbies, including everything from collecting stuffed animals, frogs, stamps, and coins to drag racing and watching the stock market. About ninety percent of the sophomores indicated that they were interested in a particular sport or sports in general. Football and basketball were the top rated sports. Although video games seem to be a big fad right now, only ten percent said that they had an interest.

A particular example of a sophomore with an unusual hobby is Margaret Zollars. She collects frogs as a hobby and has accumulated about 300 of them. They vary from paper and porcelain to pewter and come from all parts of the world.

Another popular hobby is drag racing. Chris Perrotti is one sophomore who has an interest in it. The interest grew from her dad who has won awards for drag racing.

Oddly, just a small percent of tenth graders collect either stamps or coins, once popular hobbies.

It is easy to see what interesting sophomores attend Euclid High from their wide variety of out-ofschool hobbies and interests.

9oing to the movies is a popular weekend activity in Euclid. It is especially popular for sophomores because of location. One hundred sophomores were polled to hear what they say about the movies.

The favorite flicks for sophomores to see are comedies (49 percent); romances rated second ( 40 percent). 67 percent of the students polled go to the movies once or twice a month; 22 percent go even more often. 73 percent will see a movie more than once. From these percentages, it can easily be seen how many sophomore film fans attend Euclid High.

90 percent of those polled generally liked today's movies. Sophomore Sue Jazbec believes that "movies are a lot of fun-and there is a special movie for everyone." Dan Doyle looks at movies as "something enjoyable to do with friends." All in all, sophomores had favorable things to say about today's movies and they throughly enjoy them.

Tinkling The Ivories

Vicki Ukmar and Traci Otcasek were two sophomore girls picked over many as piano accompanists for the EHS Varsity Choral.

Starting from the beginning, these talented young ladies tried out from different junior highs, where they were judged by Varsity Chorale leader Miss Bosworth. For the tryouts each girl was required to perform four pieces. Once these girls were chosen, they had to learn to work together and grow with the group. Starting these ladies as sophomores meant that for the next three years they could develop without having to retrain new girls.

On Monday nights Traci and Vicki practice with the Varsity Chorale. But what else do they do? Vicki spends most of her spare time practicing, but she still has time for ballet, swim-timing, and marching band. Traci, on the other hand, enjoys the arts, but she would rather be working with the sciences. Both girls have seen Varsity Chorale as a way to meet people and excell in their talents. Vicki Ukmar sums this up, "Playing piano with Varsity Chorale has helped me get to know people in this large high school. It has also expanded my performing skills because I no longer get nervous."

The sophomores of the ' 82 -' 83 school year were really suprised at the selection of gym and sport activities that Euclid presents. There are many more sports that can be participated in, such as hockey, swimming, diving, and soccer, that weren't offered at the junior highs.

Gym classes are much more exciting now that they don't just consist of running around and kicking balls. Sophomores now have open opportunities to pick what skills they want to excell in. Jackie Eddy said, "I just have a blast now, shooting arrows and ice skating." Meanwhile, super jocks, Blaise McDonald, Kurt Conway, and Mike Hoag boast how they are "having such a great time in basketball and volleyball."

The broad selection of Euclid's athletics has brought nothing but positive response from this year's sophomores and is regarded as one of the more enjoyable parts of the school day.

he first day of school was a memorable one for most sophomores. Most remember walking through a crowded hallway in a school that you have never even set foot in, with your eyes constantly searching for familiar faces.

Who can forget walking into the cafeteria for the first time? Standing in the long lines waiting for your first cafeteria lunch, Euclid style. Or how about the crowds? 600 people walking the halls, wondering where their homerooms are.

Sophomores took many other first steps this year. Orientation days started off the many outstanding events in their sophomore year. Class of ' 85 members especially recall Halloween day at Euclid. Sopho-to see all the school spirit and fun that was a part of the Halloween festivities." Other unforgetable events were the sophomores' first school assembly and first school dance. Sophomore Ed Tekieli said, "I'm glad I've had the chance to participate in all of Euclid activities."

Of all the notable things in the sophomores' year, perhaps most memorable was the receiving of their class rings. Though everyone does not buy one, those that do treasure this time.

All in all, this year's sophomores will have many events and good times to remember. Donna Zigman summed this up when she said, "My sophomore year was one l'll never forget."

Freshmen Find Friends

齊his year has been a new and exciting experience for the freshman class of Euclid Senior High. It has been a year of making friends, joining activities, and just having fun. Making friends was one of the biggest concerns of the freshman coming to the high school.

Here is what some of the ninth graders said about coming to Euclid.

Heidi Besselman admitted, "I thought school here would be scary, but I met many great people and I love it here!" "There's a lot of new faces. It's been a big change from junior high, but l've made lots of good friends," said Pat McLaughlin. And Colleen Coyne said, "So far it has interesting here. There are so many activities to join, and they help you make friends."
Most of the Class of ' 86 have not seemed to have had much trouble adjusting to this new world. Finding friends was a major concern and was handled well. Ninth grade Counselor, Mr. Brown said, "If you want a friend, be a friend." This sound advice seems to have been accepted by most freshmen.

Freshmen Figures

1982-83 was the first year for freshman students to invade the halls of Euclid High. Altogether, there were 510 freshmen in the school this year. There were 35 freshman homerooms, and 23 freshman English classes. Out of all of those freshmen, 66 of them were on the distinguished honor roll. 67 of them were involved in fall sports, and 6 of them were on student council. $13 \%$ of all the 9 th graders were in honors classes.

With these facts anf figures, it is easy to see just how much the addition of the freshman class to Euclid made.

Entertainment '83

The media plays a big part in our everyday lives. The Euclidian surveyed 64 members of the fresman class to determine its media tastes.

In the area of TV favorites, situation comedies ranked first, $\mathbf{M}^{} \boldsymbol{A}^{\boldsymbol{} \boldsymbol{S}^{*} \boldsymbol{H} \text { and Different Strokes be- }}$ ing the leaders in that area. Adventure shows placed second, with a 33\% rating, Hill Street Blues being the favorite pick. That was followed by MTV, with a $17 \%$ rating.

It is also notable to find that $61 \%$ of the freshmen that were surveyed watch some kind of sports on TV, not to mention cable networks ESPN and USA.

In the area of radio staions, WGCL 98 FM came in first place, with a $37 \%$ rating, and, suprisingly, WMMS 101 FM only rated $32 \%$, giving it second place.
And finally, in the area of movies, E.T. won by a landslide, with practically every freshman vote.

Healthy Freshmen

With the addition of the freshman class to EHS came ninth grade health. Health is a state required class that was previously taught to tenth graders. After this year, it will be phased out as a 10th grade class. Health is a one semester class that is either followed by or preceded by one semester of physical education.
Teaching ninth graders health took a special technique. Freshman have a low maturity level, so most of the sex education had to be cut out of the curriculum. The class did include units on nutrition, drugs and alcohol, and Red Cross Lifesaving.

Finally, according to health teacher Mrs. Kathleen Rodgers, one of the positive efferts of ninth grade health was that it "made it easier too students to accept the high school."

Knowing The Ropes

How involved is the freshman class with Euclid High way of life? The Euclidian surveyed 83 freshman to find how alert and aware they are of their surroundings. $61 \%$ of the people surveyed said that they were involved in some type of extra-curricular activity. $67 \%$ of those surveyed actually knew where the language lab was. Only $5 \%$ of the 9 th graders remembered the football teams record ( $6-3-1$ ). And only $46 \%$ knew the name of the student council president. (Not to mention the fact that there were about 37 different spellings for her name! It is Kate McLaughlin.)
As far as the freshman unit principal is concerned, $76 \%$ knew the it was Mr. Medvik. A number of the freshmen are "alive" in the EHS atmosphere and very much aware of their surroundings.

Getting Ready For The Big One

No, it isn't possible to cram for the SAT or ACT. However, two school counselors made an attempt to better prepare students for these difficult standardized tests. Mr. McGuinness and Mr. Lombardo provided workshops during the second half of lunch periods to better prepare students for taking the muchfeared exams. Mr. McGuinness said he observed that other high schools were preparing their students for the SAT/ACT tests and felt that Euclid students should also be given the opportunity. The purpose of these workshops was "to show the students what to expect on the test and, therefore, relieve a great deal of the tension felt before the testing," said McGuinness. This was the first year these workshops were held, and the students' reaction was very positive. Next year the program will be expanded to include more of a review of vocabulary and math concepts.

Above: Many students showed up for the workshop, hoping to score better on the test. Left: Mr. McGuinness helps alleviate some of the fears of students who signed up for the College Admissions Tests.

| 0 |  |n Tuesday, November 17, a career night was held in the east gym from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Representatives from various careers and fields of study assembled in the gym to answer questions about individual careers. Information was offered about training, education, salary, hours, demands, and responsibilities that are associated with specific careers. The representatives also discussed future job opportunities in their individual fields of interest. Along with the representatives from various careers, there was a special session held to discuss financial aid and scholarships as well as a program to discuss how to choose a college. The career night was successful in helping many students to gain knowledge of the careers that interest them. This type of knowledge is valuable to students who are planning for the future.

Santa's Helpers

Tradition was carried out at Euclid High this year as 56 students participated in annual Elf Day, the last day of school before Christmas vacation. Each person interested in being an "elf" for one school day had to sell $$ 5.00$ worth of chances (at $50 &$ each) to people he or she wished to have as "Santa". Any "elf" selling $10.00 or more worth of chances was eligible to win a drawing. Jim Moses, the winner of the drawing, received a $$ 25.00$ certificate for a dinner for two at the Dry Dock Restaurant.

The Friday before Elf Day, each "elf" drew from a hat the name of his or her "Santa". On Elf Day, the "elves" really lent color and Christmas spirit to the halls of Euclid High with their costumes, which they put together on their own time.

Although some students were bothered by the incessant "jinglejingle" of "elf" bells in the halls, most students and teachers enjoyed Elf Day. In one Calculus class, Mr. Reno commented, "I just can't carry on class with the distraction of Jim's (Ambrose's) legs!" Elf Day was a great success in that it raised $$ 350.00$ toward the Senior Prom.

Below: The seniors had to sell $$ 5.00$ worth of tickets in order to be an "elf". Top Right: John Meyers and Pete Joksimovich want to take their "elves" home with them. Below Right: Berni Champa has to chose between lim Ambrose and Jim Moses for her "elf".

Santa Visits Euclid

My goal this year is to provide an opportunity for each senior at Euclid High to get involved." With this in mind, Euclid's twelth grade unit principal, Robert Lombardo, set out to make the idea of a Euclid High "Breakfast with Santa" a reality.

Approximately forty students helped to plan the Breakfast, decorate the cafeteria, sell tickets, serve the food, entertain, and clean up when the festivities ended. Along with Lombardo there were three principle members of the working crew, Miss Arthur, Miss Bambic, and Miss Harris.

The citizens of Euclid responded to the hard work and dedicated planning of Euclid's teachers and students. About 320 parents and children came to the breakfast. Cereal, milk, doughnuts, orange juice, and coffee were served. Of course, Santa Claus (actually Mrs. Jagger's father-in-law) was there to talk with all of the kids.

The "Breakfast with Santa" was a success, as those who attended enjoyed themselves. Also, $$ 300.00$ was raised for the Senior Class, and the beautifully decorated cafeteria lent Christmas spirit to all who entered.

Seniors Smile

For The  Camera

绪$f$ you've been wondering what it was in the front showcase that was attracting the attention of so many students between classes, it was the senior class in the spotlight. Every week photos of twenty different seniors were featured, along with their hobbies and future plans.

Robert Lombardo, twelfth grade unit principal, was the mastermind of the operation, taking all the picitures of the students. He was assisted in the office by Alice Mihelcic, Bonnie Black, and Dawn Schmeling.

The purpose of the showcase was to recognize all the seniors. Lombardo also wished to meet every senior face to face at least once in the year.

Based upon the favorable responses he has received throughout the year from both students and teachers, Lombardo views the project as a success. Almost everyone likes to see himself in the spotlight, and the whole school got to meet the senior class and share a little school spirit.

Brian Kollar was one of the many seniors who was featured in Mr. Lombardo's Senior Spotlight.

Financial Aid Made Easy

昷his year the Board of Education is sponsoring a new program to help seniors prepare for further education. The Board has hired the services of the Cleveland Scholarship Program, an organization which is privately funded by foundations, corporations, and donations from private individuals. As part of the program, representatives visit area high schools to meet with students on a one to one basis. The representatives offer guidance dealing with financial aid for post-high school education.

From November to June of this school year, Mrs. Keske and Mrs. Dalheim became part of the career office at EHS. Students signed up in the career office to meet with Mrs.

Keske on Wednesdays or with Mrs. Kalheim on Thursdays. They provided information about financial aid and helped students fill out various types of forms. Seniors could find out whether or not they were eligible for financial aid and if so, how much. Scholarship information was also available. The representatives stressed emphatically the need for seniors to meet the necessary deadlines because financial aid applications should be mailed as early as possible

Hopefully the assistance of the Cleveland Scholarship Program will help seniors who may by confused about the future to get a start towards planning their finances for next year and for years to come.

Mrs. Keske of the Cleveland Scholarship program gives a senior much needed advice on financial aid deadlines and possible scholarships.

The Future?

-576
$-A Z$hat will the class of 1983 be doing in the future? Students from Mr. Schonauer's class gave some ideas. The majority of the students intend to further their education by either attending college or a vocational school. A small percentage plan to enlist in the military. Thirty percent are planning to reside in the Greater Cleveland Area. Approximately one-half of the students planned to be married by the time they are 25 , and thirty percent intend to have children before this age.

his year, Miss Noble's seventh period Modern Living Class studied a marriage unit. The students in the class learned of the elements of a good marriage, the history of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish wedding ceremonies, the actual steps in planning a wedding and the costs involved. The climax of the unit was a presentation by Father Joe Brodnick of Holy Cross Church. He performed a "mock" wedding ceremony and a reception followed. Father Joe Brodnick remarked that this was his first double wedding ceremony. Serving as one couple were Dave Bennett and Becky Swift. The second bride and groom were Bob Owens and Cindy Malone.

That's Entertainment

HS seniors had a hard time recalling the entertainment side of school life. Ninety students were polled to find if they knew the title of the Fall Play I Remember Mama. 38\% did. Only $31 \%$ remember that last year's Big Show was Oklahoma and 38\% knew that Carousel was to be this year's production. The majority of the students knew that the Homecoming Queen was Jane Mast, but only $24 \%$ could recall that the theme of the dance was "Dancing in the Street ${ }^{\prime \prime}$.

Playing By New Rules?

This year we have seen the end of the traditional Powder Puff football game. In previous years, the game was played by two teams of senior girls in order to raise money for the senior class. This year the Powder Puff game will be replaced by a new program. Twelfth grade unit principal Mr. Lombardo hopes that the new version of Powder Puff will be more exciting, safer, and more financially beneficial than the old program.

On the night of Thursday, May twelfth, the stadium will host a fun kind of olympic games for senior girls. Girls will compete in several silly, athletic-type games, including a short football game and a short soccer game. Track games, relay races, and other entertaining activities will take place. Girls may pick and choose the events they would like to participate in, and there is no limit to the number of girls who can be involved.

When asked why the event had been changed, Mr. Lombardo said that there were many contributing factors. He thought the game had become too violent and that girls actually intended to physically injure each other. Many teachers disliked the way the game was being played, and Mr. Lombardo had a difficult time finding teachers to sponsor the two teams. Also, the game was not making enough money because people seemed to grow less interested in Powder Puff than they used to be. Mr. Lombardo thinks that much more money will be raised if the Thursday night event in May is a success. He hopes to make up to $$ 2,000$ and to spark new spirit into the dwindling program of Powder Puff football. When asked why the new program will be better, Mr. Lombardo replied, "I believe that holding it late in May will give more girls an opportunity to participate, and hopefully, they will remember it for a long time." The event will be a final fling of high school spirit, craziness, and funl

The Name Game

ow aware of the administration are this year's seniors? As would be expected, the most recognized members of the administration were those who dealt directly with seniors. In particular, Mr. Lombardo was identified by $81 \%$ as being the twelfth grade unit principal, while the senior counselors, Miss Harris and Miss Baraniuk, were recognized by $56 \%$ and $76 \%$ respectively. $63 \%$ of the seniors were aware that Mr. Yocum is their career counselor. The names of other administrators were less known by seniors. Only $37 \%$ of the students knew that Mr. Troglia was an assistant principal, and Mrs. Smith was identified as the other assistant principal by only $11 \%$ of the seniors polled.

Above: Mr. Lombardo was recognized by the highest percent of seniors.

Living In The Land Down Under

uclid High Senior Pollymara Pinkava could have selected that popular song title to describe the past year of her life, which she spent as an American Field Service (AFS) foreign exchange student living in South Africa.

Mara lived with the John Waldergrave family in Benoni, which is about twenty miles from Johannesburg. She attended a govermnent coeducational school were all students had to wear uniforms and have to pass an appearance inspection. Girls were not permitted to wear makeup and tie their hair back, while boys had their hair cut short. Mara took eleventh grade courses similar in subject matter and difficulty to Euclid's average junior courses in trigonometry and English. On the other hand, some of her courses, like Afrikaans, one of the official languages of South Africa, religion, and South African history, aren't offered at Euclid.

One of Mara's classes, Youth Preparedness, taught all of the school's students marching and self-defense techniques. In what she called a "military oriented society" where every male is required to serve two years in the army after he completes school, Mara explained that these techniques are important in keeping students aware that their country is not surrounded by friendly powers. On the contrary, there are frequent bombings and terrorist attacks throughout the country due to political unrest in neighboring communist Angola directed against South Africa. In fact, while Euclid schools have fire and tornado drills, South African schools have evacuation and blockade drills in case of terrorist attack. But South Africa is not a battleground: most of it is as peaceful as Benoni, the town Mara lived in.

Compared to the "worldly" average Euclid student, Mara thought the South African students were more sheltered, spoiled, and immature. On the other hand, she enjoyed the manners of the South African men, who are taught as boys to be chivalrous.

Mara found South Africa to have an interesting climate which is completely opposite that of the United States. When it is winter in Euclid, it is summer in Benoni. It was hard for Mara to adjust to getting a suntan in $90^{\circ} \mathrm{F}$. weather while listening to "Jingle Bells" on the radio.
South Africa is a country that is like the United States in many ways, yet is still growing. For example, the latest commodities to hit the grocery stores there in January were margarine in quarter pound sticks and Froot Loops. Telephones are in demand; there is a two year waiting list for new phones. But, the music scene there is as up-to-date or even ahead of ours in the U.S. You can find most U.S. groups as well as Dutch, English, Australian, and Jamaican groups on South African charts. "Land Down Under" by Men At Work became popular in South Africa months before it was well known in the United States.
Mara enjoyed her year as a South African citizen and feels that her experiences gave her self-confidince and maturity, as she had to meet and deal with all kinds of people in a country in which she knew no one. She discovered that South African life is much like life in Euclid, some days are exciting while others are boring. Although she found it difficult to leave the many good friends she has in South Africa, Mara is glad to be home with her family and friends in Euclid. She hopes to share with those around her the knowledge she gained about South Africa, a country that she feels has been misrepresented by the media of the U. S. Mara is an excellent example of the AFS goal to promote intercultural, international understanding through first hand experience.
Any Euclid student can have an experience similar to Mara's if he or she applies to AFS in his or her junior year, passes a series of interviews, and is matched with a family from a foreign country. The Euclid AFS club, sponsored by Mrs. Cowan, meets weekly in room 203 and can provide more information to all interested students.

Ups And Downs Of School Life

very student has had his ups and downs at school. Spending a day in the hole would be the worst of "the downs". A poll taken showed $16 \%$ of the seniors have spent a day. $29 \%$ of the seniors served an office detention and a surprising $43 \%$ admitted to having cut a class. However, on the other side of the coin $49 \%$ have made the honor roll.

Below: Although the possibility of one of these fine individuals having spent a day in the hole is slim, statistics show one out of six seniors have.

Going For The Gold

This year, eight Euclid seniors and juniors competed for top honors in the first annual Ohio Academic Decathlon.

The Academic Decathlon is part of a national competition to recognize good students' abilities and achievements in contests that are a mental "Olympics". The idea behind the Decathlon is to give students recognition much in the same way athletes are recognized for their achievements.
The six contestants and three alternates were named to the team on the basis of the results of a combination of events. First, all potential contestants had to take a test covering general topics in English literature, math, physics, biology, world history, and the fine arts. From these contestants a group of semifinalists were selected. All semifinalists wrote an essay and made a four minute speech.

The Ohio Decathlon was held at Shaker Heights High in February, and fifteen area schools competed for first place. The first place school won an all expense paid trip to Los Angeles in mid April for competition at the national level.

Can Memories Be Bought?

chool Ring? Euclid jacket? Yearbook? How many of these do you have? Results of a survey showed that a large number of seniors owned one or more of these momentos. Approximately half of the senior class owns a Euclid jacket or a school ring, while $83 \%$ purchased a yearbook. And most of these yearbooks will be used since $80 \%$ of the seniors polled plan on attending their ten year class reunion.

Above: A survey showed that $40 \%$ of the senior class purchased a school ring.

Seniors Fail School Life

How knowledgeable are seniors about school life? According to our survey not very. $67 \%$ knew that Kate McLaughlin was Student Council president, $59 \%$ knew Jack Lardomita to be the paraprofessional at the pool tables, and $50 \%$ could identify the Survey as the EHS newspaper. From here, things became worse. $67 \%$ of the seniors must be asleep on Monday because only $33 \%$ knew that the cafeteria served either veal cutlet or chuck wagon steak. The literary magazine's title, Eucuyo, could only be remembered by $32 \%$, and the football team's 6-3-1 record was recalled by only $28 \%$ of the seniors. Finally, only $21 \%$ knew that Maria Silhammer was the AFS student from Sweden.

Favorite Flicks

What kind of movies did this year's seniors enjoy? The Euclidian polled a number of seniors to find out what the favorite movie of the class of 1983 was. The responses ranged from the traditional Sound of Music to the bizarre Apocalypse Now. The results of the survey were varied, as 42 different movies were mentioned. The most popular, with $18 \%$ of the vote, was First Blood. Officer and a Gentleman came in second with $13 \%$ of the seniors considering it their favorite movie. Another movie that was popular was E.T. which gained $7 \%$ of the senior's vote.

Above: Rick Schafer may have been part of the $18 \%$ of the seniors who considered First Blood their favorite movie.

SI, 'MMS, MSB Rated # 1

0ut of thirty magazines mentioned, Sports Illustrated came out on the top of the pile in a survey taken about seniors' favorite reading material. Seventeen and Cosmopolitan came in second and third respectively. When asked about the last book read, seniors mentioned many titles. The most popular books mentioned were Animal Farm, The Promise and Deer Hunter.

The favorite radio station was WMMS having $44 \%$ of the vote. WGCL had $22 \%$ and WRQC had $7 \%$. The favorite group of the year was the Michael Stanley Band, while Rush and The Who were tied for a close second. Also, The Who's final concert was voted as the best concert of the year.

An Unexpected Loss

tragic piece of news for senior class members this year was the sudden death of Mr. James Cliffel, former counselor to the class of 1983, who passed away from injuries sustained in a fall at his home at Christmas time.
Mr. Cliffel joined the Euclid High School faculty in 1959. From 1959 until his retirement in January 1982, he served as both a counselor and a math teacher.

The many seniors who Mr. Cliffel served remember him as a kind and concerned counselor who was always ready with a word of encouragement or advice.

Below: Mr. James Cliffel served the students of Euclid for twenty-three years as a counselor and math teacher.

The Top Of The Heap

What do Hill Street Blues, Clint Eastwood, and Goldie Hawn have in common? They ranked as this year's media favorites. For television shows, Hill Street Blues had $20 \%$ of the votes, while $\boldsymbol{M}^{\boldsymbol{*}} \boldsymbol{A} \boldsymbol{}^{\boldsymbol{S} \boldsymbol{S} \boldsymbol{H} \text { and Dynasty came }}$ in second and third respectively. When seniors were polled on their favorite actor, 28 names were mentioned, with Clint Eastwood at the top of the list having $16 \%$ of the votes. Sylvester Stallone had $8 \%$ of the votes with Tom Selleck running a close third. There was no clear cut choice for favorite actress. Goldie Hawn had 4\% of the votes, and 3\% of the votes went to both Meryl Streep and Stephanie Powers.

A New Perspective On . . . GLLEELELETLEE

Left: The auto industry responded to massive declines in sales with layoffs and plant closings. Euclid's Fisher Body was no exception. Lower Leff: There was no shortage of business property this year. The ailing economy forced many failures. Below: Yet another casualty in the war on inflation.

Hdvertising took on a new look in 1983. Ad sales, which fell below the minimum goal of $$ 5000$, were a good indicator of the local and national economies. Unemployment rose to record levels, much of it related to the ailing auto and steel industries. Financing a publication with an annual budget of well over $$ 20,000$ became a formidable task to accomplish. Many traditional advertisers declined this year, saying that "the money just isn't there."

Hail to thee, O Euclid High School,
To thy name all praise we sing.
Happy days of youthful pleasure,
Learning, living, life so dear. Our hearts fill with gratitude For all that is to be; All our praise we bring to thee.

Where the blue of Erie's waters
Casts the sun's bright golden rays, There all Euclid's sons and daughters Sing the joys of student days. If after days be dark and drear, And storms of life draw nigh, The memories of our friendships here Will lift our hearts to Euclid High.

Right: The slogan that adorned the second floor corridor became words to live by for many Euclid students. Right, bottom: "Coing the distance", whether in sports, academics or activities, was what Euclid students strove for in 1983 Below: Students saw their school in this perspective as they approached from the southwest.

A Future Perspective

The 1982-1983 school year drew to a close for the seniors on May 26th and two weeks later for the rest of the student body. During the 184 days spent here, Euclid's students prepared themselves for life to the best of their abilities. The future was looked to with anticipation and often fear. These were the best of times, these were the worst of times. It all depended on the perspective in which they were taken.

colophon

1107 copies of the 1983 Euclidian were printed by the Josten's/American Yearbook Company at State College, Pennsylvania. The book is printed on Gloss 191 paper stock and includes eight pages of natural color and eight pages of spot color. Optima type is used throughout the book, with body copy set in ten point size, captions copy in eight point size and index copy in six point size. A poster style dropped initial is used in all body copy. The cover is a full color lithograph of hand drawn artwork. The book has yellow-orange 290 endsheets. The final deadline to insure on-time delivery of the book was February 21, 1983.

A Word Of Whanke ...

A work of thanks goes to all those whose efforts resulted in the 1983 Euclidian. Special note should be made of Raimor Studios for processing and printing pictures; Frank Troglia for opening doors and showing our photographers around; Mr. Dave Schonauer for his help in gathering survey results for the senior section; Mr. Banford for lending us negatives; Miss Arthur for allowing us to use the darkroom; Dr. Bergem and all the rest of the faculty and staff for their cooperation and support; Most of all, thanks should be given to the student body, without which this book could not exist.

A Pinal Note

Our goal in publishing the 1983 Euclidian has been to place the 1982-1983 school year at Euclid High in historical perspective. We have attempted to present the year exactly as it happened. In trying to accurately record the names and activities of roughly 2200 students, it is inevitable that some may be left out. To these students we give our sincere apology. We hope that the 1983 Euclidian lives up to your expectations. We've responded to your criticisms and comments about last year's book and incorporated change in this year's. A full color cover, larger senior pictures and larger type in the senior section are just a few of the changes implemented to keep up with student tastes. We hope to top last year's two first place ratings this year. Enjoy!

 (0)The closing night of the 1983 Big Show will always be remembered as the night the lights went out in Euclid. The lights went out an hour into the last performance of Carousel. As the auditorium was immersed in partial darkness, the audience remained calm. It was soon apparent that the blackout was the result of a power failure affecting the northeast section of Euclid.
The musical was stopped for fifteen minutes as the administration searched for the cause. After that, it was decided that "the show must go on," despite the fact that there were only two show must go on," despite the fact that there were only two emergency lights and no microphones.

重n their most successtul season in many years, a young varsity softball team fought their way to a $10-4$ record, good for second place in the GCC.

Coach Chet Nolan's team was vastly improved from the 1982 edition. The Lady Panthers won their first eight games. In addition to their second place finish, Carla Loparo felt that the victories over Brush and Mentor were team highlight.
A young but talented team, the Lady Pathers had seven seniors, only two juniors and four sophomores. JoAnne Zele, and most dominating pitcher in the GCC, hurled five shutouts. Cheryl Botts and sophomores Laura Walsh and Margie McCance were both outstanding both offensively and defensively. Zele, Botts, and Walsh were all named to the Plain Dealer's Dream Team.

The 1983 girls' junior varsity softball team had a $14-4$ overall record. After an opening day loss to Mayfield, the team reeled of 12 consecutive victories and finished league play at 11-3 with a second place finish in GCC action.

fperfect 8-0 dual meet record and a first place finish in the GCC meet were the highlights of the 1983 girls' track team. A young team, the Pantherettes were composed of one freshman, fourteen sophomores, twelve juniors, and only five seniors.
On their way to their perfect season, the girls broke a number of school records. Senior Jean Savage heaved the shot put $42^{\prime} 8^{3 / /^{\prime \prime}}$. The shuttle hurdle relay team of Julie Sas, Savage, Anne Buck, and Wendy Potokar ran the event in 66.1. A new 3200 meter relay record of 9:54.1 was set by Tina Day, Noreen O'Donnell, Kris Faletic, and Amy Jo Nemecek. Freshman sensation Raya Shields ran the 200 meter dash in the record time of 25.3 seconds.

The lady Panthers saved their best performances for the CCC meet. Savage won both the shot put and the discus events. Sophomore Vickie Schmeling triumphed in the long jump, while Potokar won the hurdles. Traci O'Hannon and Kris Faletic finished first in the 400 meter and 1600 meter runs. Winning the 1600 meter relay was the team of Faith Kardos, O'Donnell, Nemecek, and O'Hannon.

At the district meet, Savage and Shields qualified for the state meet. In Columbus, Savage placed second in the shot put with a toss of $41^{\prime}$ $11^{1 / 4^{\prime \prime}}$.

Far right: One freshman and fourteen sophomores helped the team to its victorious season. Right: Lisa Caplick complemented her teammate, Jean Savage, in the shot put event.

what do you do after a state championship season? That was the question the 1983 baseball team faced this season. The Panthers answered that question with a 25-4 season that included another GCC championship and a record winning streak.

With eight returning lettermen from the 1982 state championship team, two of them starters, many people expected Euclid to continue to dominate high school baseball in northeast Ohio. They were not disappointed. Euclid roared out of the gate to win its first sixteen games. Those games and the fifteen straight it won to close the 1982 season gave it a 31 game winning streak before it was stopped by Eastlake North in a 31 game.

The 1983 baseball team had the traditional Euclid baseball virtues of overpowering pitching, strong defense, and timely hitting. Pitching coach Jeff Hartman's staff had the lowest ERA in the Cleveland area for most of the season. Highlighting the year were two no-hit gems hurled by John Donnett and Mike Brechen against Wickleffe and Bedford. The team supported the pitchers with a .288 batting average.

Ken Godnovec and Ken Ospelt captained the GCC champions. Providing leadership through example were the members of the all-GCC team: Godnovec, Brechun, Lou Nieves, Jeff Krofcheck, and Bill Nachtigal. Godnovec also was named to the All-East team. All-Ohio honors were awarded to Nieves.

IV Baseball Team Roster: T. Adkins, K. Barnard, K. Bartol, T. Colbert, K. Conway, J. Corrigan, E. Felden, J. Harris, J. Jalovec, D. Koller, B. McPeek, P. Nozling, P. Papageorge, M. Pekol, M. Roche, I. Slattery, S. Szmania, E. Tekieli, B. Tressler, R. Virant, B. Walther, J. Zurilla, Coach.

Paul Pallante

The Varsity Chorale
 aul Pallante and the Varsity Chorale were inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1983.
Pallante was a three-year member of the varsity football and indoor and outdoor track teams. He won the Most Valuable Player Award in the GCC for his football accomplishments as a senior. In track, Pallante is the holder of four school records and the GCC records in the 300 meter low hurdles, 200 meter dash, and 1600 meter relay. Pallante capped off his high school athletic career by placing second in the 110 meter high hurdles and first in the 300 meter low hurdles at the state track meet in June.

The Varsity Chorale won member ship in the Hall of Fame on the strength of their numerous concerts for various civic groups throughout the year. The Chorale's crowning achievement came in May when it won a silver medal at the Toronto International Music Festival.
